COD IS LOVE AND NOTHING ELSE.

PRAISE THE LORD.

LETTER FROM GEORGE O. BARNES

PENSACOLA, FLA., APRIL 4, 1888.

DEAR INTERIOR:—Wonderful for fish, is this Pensacola. Pretty name that, by the way. Of Indian origin, it is, keeping alive the title of a tribe, long since blotted out. "The Pensacolas" are as extinct as the dodo; or as the bison soon will be, unless our Uncle Samuel makes up his mind to keep them from extermination in his great national preserve, the Yellowstone Park.

But the fish, I began with. There are monsters of from 100 to 200 pounds of what is known as the Warsaw variety—excellent for the table when served in steaks. Then, leading all others for general utility, the incomparable Red Snapper, from five to 50 pounds. Then the Spotted Guinea, five to 15, a superb fish, like a Sea-bass of the North. Then the Amber Jack, as near like a salmon as can be, and as game. Then the salt water Trout, from three to ten pounds; as toothsome almost as its speckled brother of fresh water. Sheep-Heads are known by all gourmands. And Pompano and Spanish Mackerel, rarely delicate. Then the smaller kinds—Black Groupers and White Groupers, shaped like our Sun-perch, with others too numerous to mention, fill out the list. Mullet, the commonest of all and most eaten, I do not mention, though it would be esteemed a good fish, were there not a dozen varieties much better.

At one haul of the seine, at a picnic given by our good captain, the fishermen brought to land seven different kinds, deliciously edible, and two or three kinds that were thrown back as not worth putting in the pot.

To one not accustomed to the "abundance of the sea," the fish "takes" are really wonderful. We often go down to see the fishing smacks discharging their finny treasures, to be packed in huge ice-boxes in the warehouse and afterwards shipped by rail as needed. One hundred and fifty pounds, with appropriate icing, are sent off in a flour barrel. Two hundred pounds in a sugar ditto. At present the beautiful Red Snapper are in greatest abundance. Fancy a gold fish of 10 or 15 pounds weight and you have the average Red Snapper of the Southern waters.

Capt. Petterson left home last Friday week, to be back the following Monday. The floods that caught Pat Jr., and made him a close prisoner at Montgomery for three days, also detained our friend. He gives us quite a thrilling account of his various attempts to break through the cordon of encircling waters. North, south, east and west, he went out on every prospecting engine. But all in vain. At last, he came in 12 hours later than Pat, who quietly waited till the first train went through, and by a very round about route. He, however, had the pleasure, his greatest in life, I believe, of helping poor women and children, to get something to eat, when almost starving on delayed trains; and by his cheery courage and ready help, got trains over had places where they would otherwise have hopelessly stuck. He is so full of sailorly resource, that he must have been an unspeakable blessing wherever he went. And his various sallies in search of liberty brought him in contact with many cases of distress and need. We were cut off from our mail for four days, which was our little trial, among the greater ones suffered by others. It was an unexampled period of high water and will entail rightful loss on some of the railroads. Things are resuming their regular flow once more and no more trouble is apprehended.

Yesterday we all took a sail at Pat Sr.'s expense, across the bay and up the Santa Rosa sound for 14 miles. "Capt. Jack's" yacht-sloop, the "Phantom," took in twice seven of us. The day was charming; the wind fair; the lunch abundant; and consciences light and good. I have rarely enjoyed a day more. We went three miles beyond the "Quarantine." Santa Rosa Sound is that lovely sheet of water, averaging a mile in width, that separates Santa Rosa Island from the mainland. S. R., as previously mentioned, is a little over 40 miles long, by about half a mile wide, and a mere succession of white sand hillocks. A few groves of stunted pines, at irregular intervals; innumerable patches of furze bushes (closely resembling English furze, but thornless); clumps of palmetto in the low swales between the sand hills; and, for the rest, white sand, resembling drifted snow, the whitest I ever saw. The glare would soon produce what is known as "snow blindness" in the Arctic regions. Only one of our party had green spectacles, and this dazzling glare was the only trial of the day.

The sloop came to anchor 50 yards from land and the little yawl transferred us to shore, by instalments. Then we struck across the island, here half a mile wide, for the blue waters of the Gulf. It was hot work, wading through the palmettos, with a treacherous crust that barely supported our weights; and then over the yielding sands. But we made it at last, and then, mounting the last row of hillocks—Oh! Oh! Who can describe the open sea, rolling in upon its shore with measured beat; waters like molten glass; restless as sin, and as attractive; voices from afar that change and grow upon you as you listen, trying to interpret; but ever mocking inquiry, as to "what the wild waves are saying." I do not know yet which I like best, the thunder beats of the angry surf, that shakes the ground you stand on, or the gentle "swish" of the softly-coming tide, that seems to have no peril in it. Nor have I decided yet whether I like either; when I think of how it bullies and blusters, or deceitfully whispers by turns. It is so beautiful; so cruel. So glorious; so horrible. Blame me not for inconsistency. It is, in heaven, the same. There we have a "sea of glass;" and there—one joy of it—"there shall be no more sea." They cannot have heaven, even, with it or without it. From which I infer, that, once the terrible, the dreadful winnowed from it, the beautiful, the glorious sea, as God once made it, not as the devil has unmade it, shall be the eternal "thing of beauty and a joy forever."

To look at this expanse of water, clear as crystal to the beach, because nothing but snowy sand to roll up upon; to feast the eyes on its neutral tints, wearied with the glare of the hot shore; then to lie down upon the dry, soft, white sand, where many storms have thrown up a drift of shells, and select at leisure those that please you most, from the dozens of delicate varieties; while you turn again and again from this to feast the eyes upon the incoming waves, dashing gently, not spitefully, almost to your feet; perhaps this is about as luxurious a bit of sensations titillation as falls to the lot of sinful mortals.

Returning we had to "beat" out of the sound, a short tack to windward and a long stretch to leeward, in nautical parlance, till we weathered the point at the mouth; then fair wind and a grand run home. Had we picked the 365 days of the year, a more perfect one for a pleasant sail could hardly have been found. "Capt. Jack" and his buoyant craft, the "Phantom," "did us proud" that happy day. It was worth much to those of us who want to get strong and well again. I would not take $1,000 in gold for what I have regained in these 25 days at Pensacola. I don't feel like the man that didn't dare to lift his hand-satchel out of the car, lest his back should break again. Praise the LORD!

And I am really enthusiastic about this glorious climate, for invalids of all kinds. I can speak of it experimentally, for March and April. Others say it is grand all the year round. And I can well believe them. Capt. Petterson says he has not met a single case of malarial disease in the 17 years of his residence here. The yellow fever can only be imported. So it may go to New York. To originate here is impossible. There is nothing to start it. And now that quarantine arrangements are inexorable, there is as little danger of its getting in here as in New York or Philadelphia. It has been, in lax sanitary days, in both those cities. We saw two barques from the Mediterranean in quarantine yesterday. No sickness on board; only filthy ballast that they will not allow to be taken to the city. All has to be dumped at quarantine; vessels thoroughly fumigated and whitewashed; and only then allowed to come to the city for their lading. All this precaution, lest the possible germs of disease might impregnate the ship's ballast and be communicated on shore, when the summer's sun strikes it.

The wharves and all the bay front of the city are ballast-built. What a hotch-potch it is, to be sure. Granite from Norway; lava from Naples; soapstone from Finland; clay from Germany; and other earths and stones from other far-away places. One load of ballast came from Australia last week. Isn't it queer? Almost uncanny.

To-day I went down with Pat—pere et filio—to the Navy Yard. Pat, Jr., went on to Pickens to see Geronimo and his braves; his father and I to the National Cemetery to see if the grave of his brother-in-law, who died in '61 or '62, in the Confederate service, could be identified or traced. Once before he had made unsuccessful search. This time we were rewarded. The obliging keeper of the cemetery had unearthed the records and the desired clue was furnished. It was pathetic, to stand over a square block of stone, labelled 1,129; and then to look over the hundreds of others, most of them marking unknown graves, as this had done, till to-day, and to think of the buried hopes and hearts lying under the dumb sod; 1,554 in all, to date, lie in the neat enclosure. About ten acres are surrounded by a substantial wall; and the place is thoroughly well kept. The stars and stripes are flying from a tall flag-staff in the centre. My friend was greatly relieved to make this discovery and will send an appropriate monument to mark the spot more fittingly than "1,129" can do. This kinsman by marriage, who lies in this cemetery, is a grandson of the great John J. Crittenden and his name—sake—J. Crittenden Coleman. He died at Pensacola soon after the civil war began and up to this day his family have not known just where he was buried. A melancholy satisfaction, to find his grave; but still far, far better than not to know. Capt. Roche, in the paymaster's office here, showed us the kindest courtesy, walking out with us through the blazing sun and over the hot, sandy road to the cemetery; and in every way showing the heartiest sympathy with Mr. Joyce in his search. The keeper of the cemetery, a pensioner of government, who was disabled from active service by a wound received in frontier service, most obligingly did all he could; and to him we were largely indebted for the search in the old record books, that gave the needed clue. He takes great pride in keeping the place in exquisite order, and Uncle Sam gets the worth of his money in Mr. Shea, superintendent of the National Cemetery—Warrington.

Pat Jr. was delighted with his visit to the Indians, as I knew he would be.

Those frequent jaunts on the bay are very health-giving and delightful. Tomorrow we want, if the weather permits, to go across to the life-saving station, Santa Rosa Island. Next day to Chico Bay to spend one last day with our dear, noble captain. Saturday we go, God willing, to Mississippi City, 50 miles this side of New Orleans.

Ever in Jesus, GEO. O. BARNES.

—James McFerran threshed a negro who was attempting to take a walking cane from him at Livingston a few days since.

—We learn from the Courier-Journal that R. M. Eldridge, who left here on Thursday for Missouri, was married to Miss Nancy M. Babbitt by Justice Keigwin in Jeffersonville. The newly married couple left immediately for the West.

—John Ferguson, a young man aged about 22, disappeared from his home near this place last Thursday and no tidings have been received from him since. His mother and family are greatly distressed over his absence and silence.

—We regret to learn that M. T. Craft has severed his connection with the Lebanon Enterprise to follow other pursuits. We understand he goes to Pineville to practice his profession, the law. He deserves the best, no matter where he goes.

—A. R. McLean, of Livingston, was up Friday. Mrs. W. L. Owens is improving. Perry White has returned from a prospecting tour in Bell county. Engineer J. W. Flowers is out on the train this week. George Sutton left Friday for St. Jo, Mo. John Mize will start Friday for Macon City, same State. Mark Hardin, of your place, was with us Sunday.

—George Mullins, an old colored man, who had quite a varied experience during the late war, having been taken south and sold no less than three times making his escape and returning to his old home, is yet living near town. It is related here by many reliable witnesses that George many years since, for the consideration of a quart of whisky, picked up a live black snake and bit off the serpent's head while it was yet busily licking out its tongue. He afterwards killed a number in like manner for the amusement of crowds who desired to see the performance. Fact.

—Four prisoners escaped from our jail last week, two moonshiners Monday and two murderers Saturday. Yet the jail is in good condition.

—Deputy United States Marshals Rogers and Maggard arrived here Sunday evening with six moonshine prisoners and a lot of witnesses from Breathitt county.

—J. A. Craft was in Louisville and R. M. Jackson in Barbourville last week. Mr. Osborne, agent at Altamont, was here Sunday. M. T. Craft, of Lebanon, is visiting his mother. Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Hubert left Sunday on a visit to her parents in Breathitt county.

—Sunday evening, at 7 o'clock, while Gran Johnson, deputy jailer, was having a colored prisoner, Jake Dees, carry out the slop buckets, Dees threw the buckets down and made a dash for liberty. Johnson gave him a lively chase, firing three shots and capturing him about a mile from town. Johnson on leaving the jail left the door open and Sam Burnard, awaiting a new hearing and under a ten years' sentence, and Wm. Crawford, held for murder, without bail, made their escape, going in the direction of Williamsburg. Burnard is 6 feet 2 inches high, about 32 years old, smooth face, dark complexion and eyes. Crawford is over 6 feet tall, full face, small moustache, blue eyes and light complexion. Both poorly clad. Several years ago Burnard assaulted a young woman, and fearing arrest, blew out her brains with a revolver. By some hook or crook he failed to do the rope act and went free until last summer, when he killed his brother-in-law and was tried and sentenced for ten years, and was still in jail waiting for the courts to give him a new trial. Poor old Jake Dees only threw a rock at a train and has never been so fortunate as to kill his man, made a bold attempt to get away, but Gran could not afford to do without him.

There have been rumors of his probable demise during and ever since his trial, it was thought for effect, but it seems that the old man was deeply in earnest.

—Fountain Land and his cousin Sally were brought before the Madison Circuit Court, charged with unlawful cohabitation. The proof was dead against them, but they got clear of the penalty in such cases made and provided by incurring a worse penalty—taking each other for better or worse. W. P. WALTON.

FINDING that the legislature is determined to stay in Frankfort till the last poor dollar is filched from the treasury, Gov. Buckner has sent another message to the body emphasizing his former recommendations and suggesting that a commission be empowered to make a thorough overhauling of the books and accounts of State officials. Instead of adopting the latter suggestion, which was made with the honest desire of doing the proper thing, the House by a vote of 29 to 44 refused to do so. The Louisville Times singles out one ass, which it said climbed a pole and made an exhibition of himself, but if any of the 44 is a greater ass than the other, the Times alone is smart enough to distinguish it.

THE House Committee has completed its consideration of the postal appropriation bill, which aggregates $60,133,000 or nearly $6,000,000 more than last year. By unanimous consent a new provision of law authorizing allowance for third-class offices for rent, light and fuel and placing them on a footing with first and second-class offices in this regard, was incorporated in the bill and $550,000 appropriated for it. If it becomes a law, as there is all probability that it will, it will carry joy to the heart of our own Capt. Richards, as well as all other postmasters of his grade, who have to rent and furnish their offices with all the modern improvements for the government to draw pay from.

It was with much surprise and deep regret that we read in the last issue of the Lebanon Enterprise, the valedictory of our good friend, Morgan T. Craft. He goes to Pineville to practice law and while we rejoice with him on his splendid prospects, we are exceedingly loth to part with him in a profession which he so handsomely adorns. The wish may be father to the thought, but we yet expect to see him filling a position in it with the credit that has always characterized him. Mr. J. R. Abell takes his place on the Enterprise, which we hope he will be able to fill.

The president, while horseback riding with Secretary Fairchild Friday, jumped down and at the risk of his own life, grabbed the bridle of a horse which was running away with Mrs. Marie Wright, a newspaper correspondent, and saved her from probable death. Grover is as gallant a knight as ever drew a sword or saved a female neck, but he won't gain any votes in this section by his Friday's exploit. Mrs. Marie was here not long ago, and talked about 25 persons into taking the Sunny South, each one of whom will seriously regret that her horse was not permitted to finish the job so well begun.

HON. J. H. TINSLEY, of Barbourville, is announced as a candidate for Judge of the new Common Pleas Court District, composed of Laurel, Whitley, Knox, Bell, Harlan, Perry and Leslie. Judge Tinsley is one of the best all around men we know of, a fine lawyer and a splendid gentleman, and his party should give him the nomination without contest. Of course no democrat could be elected in such a district, and since he could not, the section is to be congratulated that so capable a gentleman of the opposing party aspires to the office.

Judge JACKSON, of the U. S. Circuit Court, to whom an appeal was taken by the West Virginia authorities from the decision of Judge Barr, in the Hatfield habeas corpus cases, affirmed that decision in Louisville Friday and a further appeal was taken to the Supreme Court. Gov. Wilson is determined to make all the capital he can out of the business, but the end will see the Hatfields still with us, or until they have felt the halter draw for their murderous crimes.

It begins to look like the engineers' strike on the Burlington has signally failed. A dispatch says the road is running all its trains without the least trouble and is doing a large freight business. About 50 of the old engineers and firemen have returned to work and it is believed that many more will return. Strikes don't seem to pay anybody.

Judge GRESHAM's presidential aspirations have received a very black eye by his own home, New Albany, going against him, and his boom may be said to have collapsed. He is too decent a man for the Indiana republicans, who seem to prefer the bloody shirt screecher, Harrison, whom Turpie downed for the Senate last year.

J. SOULE SMITH is suggested in many quarters as the best man to succeed C. J. Bronston as Commonwealth's Attorney in the Lexington district. If the voters there are of the same opinion as to his fitness and ability that his friends on the outside are, the Times' Falcon will soar to easy victory.

WHAT is the use of discussing whether the printers' boycott is raised or not, when the Courier-Journal can come out in a 64-column number as it did Sunday, just teeming with advertisements? The greatest paper in the country is going to thrive, no matter who sets its types.

LEGISLATIVE DOINGS.

—The bill providing that a reading of newspaper accounts shall not disqualify jurors in criminal cases has become a law.

—A bill to charter the Danville and Lancaster Railway Company has been presented. It is intended to connect the Louisville Southern and the K. C.

—Mr. Rigney called up House bill No. 1484, relating to public records in Lincoln county. Reported with amendment, adopted and bill passed.—[Frankfort Capital.

—Lawyer Davison offered a bill Saturday to repeal an act, entitled "An act to amend an act, entitled 'An act to incorporate the Hustonville and Coffey's Mill Turnpike Road Co.'"

—The legislature has been in Frankfort 100 days at a cost of a good $1,000 a day and they are likely to stay there as long as the money holds out to pay its members $5 a day.

—Mr. Hanks, of Anderson, is wasting time offering a bill to fix the punishment for larceny in the sum of $25 or less, at a fine of not exceeding $100 or not exceeding 20 lashes on the bare back. A majority of the legislators will be against it for fear of putting their own backs in jeopardy.

—What are you going to do about that Scottish order for back numbers? Verily it is no small compliment that the little unassuming INTERIOR JOURNAL should be memorandized in and ordered from the land of Bruce and Wallace, Scott and Burns, the Stuarts and the Douglasses, and all the mighty host who contributed to Scotland's undying glory. Would it not be well to equip the B. M. with a generous file of the paper and ship him at once to the "Land O' Cakes" to present its claims on a broader theatre than Pulaski? It is a "Miss" who addresses him; there might be money in it. We would all be proud to see Ed return with a wife—a branch plucked from the stately genealogical tree of some ancient aristocracy.

—My well-known modesty prevented an earlier acknowledgement of the kindly complimentary notice accorded me in the last issue of the sprightly little College paper, The Comet. Nor would I even now be able to advert to it were it not that certain envious parties have insinuated that the article is a covert sarcasm. I know the young lady (she is very young) who wrote it, and can testify that she is too guileless to be insincere, too honest to misrepresent, too kindly to give pain. I am not indifferent to praise, but am peculiarly proud of it when it wells up pure and sparkling from the gushing affections of young hearts unbacked in life's distorted ways, uncontaminated by earth's poisoned infiltrations.

—Hen roosts about here are reported as being minus a few and we are short a couple of citizens. Strange world, this.

—The fire seems to be making this end of the county a specialty. The knobs are full of it and great damage to fencing is reported. A yard containing 10,000 staves belonging to M. L. The organ and books belonging to the church were saved by the citizens, but nothing towards stopping the fire could be accomplished.

Still there is no dead dog heard from. Mr. Drye thinks he has tempered the animal's system by degrees until it will contain strychnine with perfect safety. This is all we have time to write, as—

A Bishop Against Prohibition.

With clamorous and persistent emphasis it is urged from many sides that drunkenness threatens the ruin of our institutions. It not infrequently happens that men are most vociferous in denouncing abuses when the evil has begun to disappear, just as soldiers often make the greatest show of courage when the enemy have turned their backs. Whether or not Gladstone's dictum that alcohol is a greater scourge than war, pestilence and famine combined be mere rhetoric, it cannot be shown that any nation or people has been destroyed by intoxicating drink.

The English have been and are a nation of drinkers, and they are the predominant race of the world. I have no knowledge of a population of total abstainers who have ever enjoyed civil and political liberty; and though I will not say, with an English prelate, that it is better to be free than to be sober, yet I will say that the methods of dealing with sin in general are the proper methods for counteracting the evil of drunkenness, and that it is absurd to attempt to persuade the American people that the permanence of their institutions depends on their becoming a nation of total abstainers.

It is a law of human nature that excessive pressure brought to bear on any special form of moral evil results in other evils; and now, when various influences are diminishing intemperance in America there seems to be no sufficient reason for calling upon the State to prohibit the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquor. The less we bring the government into our private, personal and domestic affairs, the freer and happier we shall be.

But whatever opinions we may have as to the means of promoting sobriety, there is no question that the evil of intemperance in this country was much greater in the early part of the century than at present; and the wave continues to subside.—[J. L. Spalding in the Forum.

The Thomas Railroad Bill.

In an article on the bill abolishing the railroad commission and substituting a common sense plan of dealing with the railroads, the Courier-Journal says:

This bill is plain, direct and simple. It is not experimental, but practical. It deals not with a theory, but with a situation. It does not seek to arbitrarily interfere with the details of transportation, but it lays down instead broad principles which the courts must observe. It secures to the citizen his common law rights, making it possible for him by the aid of the State to enforce these rights.

This part of the bill is a marked advance in railroad legislation in that it conforms to the growth of public sentiment and to the experience of recent years. We repeat that if this bill receives the support of the railroads, it shows a disposition on their part to live up to their public obligations, which is commendable.

But it is objected that the bill abolishes the commission. So it does, and it does this because all that the commission could possibly gain, all that it has been authorized to attempt, is secured by the restrictive provisions of the bill. The objections to the commission have grown from year to year. It is an expense and it is of little benefit. The complaints filed with it have been few and unimportant. It recognizes its own uselessness by constantly urging an extension of power and an increase of dignity.

Dynamite is the most deadly of all explosives, and cholera was sure death to chickens until the discovery of Gantner's chicken cholera cure. It is sold on the "no-cure-no-pay" plan by McRoberts & Stage.
